Nancy was widely known for her creative efforts, which ranged from sewing and gardening to scrapbooking and paper crafts. She loved the outdoors and had a great appreciation for flowers, birds, and beautiful skies. She enjoyed baking cookies and shared that love with her children and grandchildren, who brought her so much joy. She loved to encourage their creative pursuits, equipping each of them to explore and develop their talents. She treasured every hand-made gift or artwork and wanted to see every performance and sample every edible creation. She just loved being Grandma.

Most of her professional life was spent in the insurance industry, where she was recognized as a hardworking and helpful colleague and friend. She was part of a large group who met regularly for crafting, dinner, and companionship, and who loved her for her kindness and generosity.
